7
CHAPTER

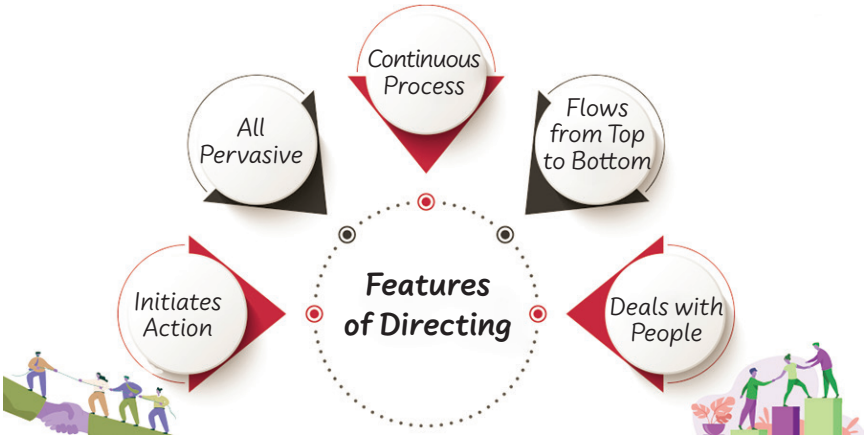

Directing

MEANING AND CONCEPT

Directing is the managerial process of guiding and motivating individuals to achieve organizational goals through leadership, supervision, communication, and inspiration.

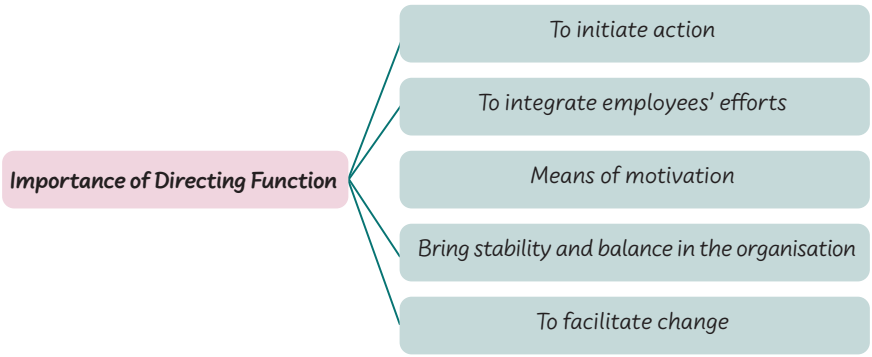

FEATURES OR CHARACTERISTICS OF DIRECTING

1. Initiates Action: Directing converts plans into actions, driving organizational activities.
2. All Pervasive: It occurs at all management levels wherever superior-subordinate relationships exist.
3. Continuous Process: Directing is an ongoing activity throughout the organization's life.
4. Flows from Top to Bottom: It follows the organizational hierarchy, with superiors guiding and instructing subordinates.
5. People-Centric: Directing focuses on managing human efforts, making it sensitive due to the complexity of human behavior.
6. Performance oriented: The main purpose of directing is to bring in efficiency in the organisation

IMPORTANCE OF DIRECTING (SAIIF)

1. Initiates Action: Directing activates other managerial functions by guiding and motivating employees to start working towards goals.
2. Promotes Group Integration: It aligns individual efforts to contribute collectively to organizational objectives.
3. Means of Motivation/Achieving Goals: Through supervision, motivation, and communication, it enhances employee efficiency and performance.
4. Facilitates Change: Directing helps overcome resistance to change through effective communication and guidance.
5. Maintains Stability: It ensures balance and cooperation within the organization, aligning personal and organizational goals.

PRINCIPLES OF DIRECTING

1. Maximum Individual Contribution: Motivate and inspire employees to contribute their best to organizational goals.
2. Harmony of Objectives: Reconcile individual goals with organizational objectives for mutual benefit.
3. Unity of Command: Ensure each subordinate reports to only one superior to prevent confusion.
4. Appropriateness of Direction Techniques: Use direction methods that suit the situation, employees, and organizational needs.
5. Managerial Communication: Maintain effective two-way communication for clarity and feedback.
6. Strategic Use of Informal Organisation: Leverage informal groups to enhance formal organizational relationships.
7. Effective Leadership: Provide strong guidance and support, addressing both professional and personal concerns of employees.
8. Direct Supervision: Foster commitment and morale through personal interaction and supervision.
9. Principle of Follow Through: Monitor and address ongoing activities to ensure continuous progress.

ELEMENTS OF DIRECTING

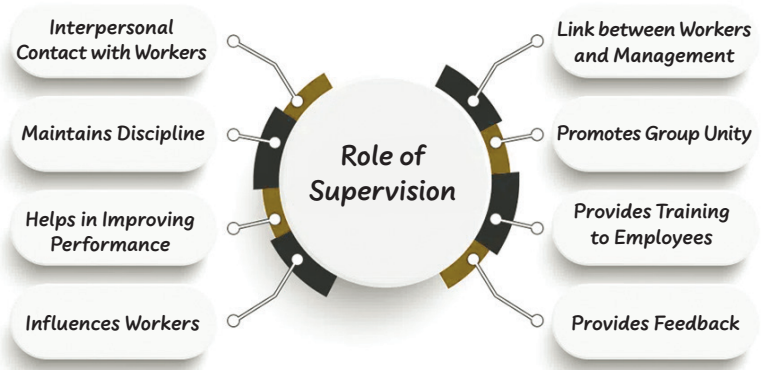

Element	Description
Supervision	Overseeing and guiding employees to ensure work aligns with plans and helping solve problems.
Motivation	Stimulating and inspiring individuals to give their best for achieving organizational goals.
Leadership	Influencing and guiding people to achieve goals while maintaining strong interpersonal relations.
Communication	Exchanging ideas, views, and information to foster understanding and ensure smooth operations.

SUPERVISION

Supervision, derived from "super" (Over) and "vision" (To see), involves overseeing subordinates to ensure they follow plans and policies. It includes guiding, instructing, and observing work to ensure efficiency and alignment with goals.

Importance or Role of Supervision

1. Interpersonal Contact: Supervisors maintain daily contact with workers, acting as guides and support.

2. Link Between Workers and Management: Supervisors communicate policies and grievances between both parties, preventing conflicts.
3. Maintains Discipline: Supervisors enforce rules and maintain discipline within the organization.
4. Promotes Group Unity: Supervisors build team unity by resolving internal conflicts and fostering harmonious relationships.
5. Improves Performance: Supervisors inspire and motivate workers to enhance productivity and achieve goals.
6. Provides Training: Supervisors offer on-the-job training to improve skills and reduce mistakes.
7. Influences Workers: Through effective leadership, supervisors boost employee morale and cooperation.
8. Provides Feedback: Supervisors evaluate performance, identify weaknesses, and offer corrective feedback for improvement.

MOTIVATION

Motivation is the process of inspiring individuals to give their best effort toward achieving organizational goals. It is an internal psychological force that drives behavior and focuses on achieving goals.

Features of Motivation (IPCC - G)

1. Internal Feeling: Motivation is a psychological force that originates within an individual and influences behavior.
2. Goal-Directed Behavior: Motivation drives employees to achieve both organizational and personal goals.
3. Positive or Negative: Motivation can be positive (Rewards) or negative (Punishments) to influence behavior.
4. Complex Process: Motivation is complex as it varies based on individual expectations and reactions.
5. Continuous and Dynamic: Motivation is ongoing as the fulfillment of one need leads to the emergence of new ones.

Importance of Motivation (PARA - C)

1. Improves Performance: Motivation bridges the gap between employees' capacity and willingness to work, enhancing performance and efficiency.
2. Changes Attitude: Motivation helps turn negative attitudes into positive ones, promoting a productive work environment.
3. Reduces Employee Turnover: Motivated employees are less likely to leave, reducing recruitment costs and maintaining skilled labor.
4. Reduces Absenteeism: Proper motivation fosters a positive work environment, reducing absenteeism and encouraging consistent attendance.
5. Facilitates Change: Motivation helps employees embrace change by demonstrating the benefits of new initiatives.

Motive, Motivation, and Motivators

Term	Description	Examples
Motive	Inner desire driving behaviour toward goal achievement, arising from needs, desires, or urges.	Thirst, hunger, recognition, security.
Motivation	Process of stimulating individuals to act to achieve desired goals by satisfying their needs.	Encouraging teamwork to meet deadlines.
Motivator	Techniques or factors used to motivate individuals in an organization.	Financial (Bonuses), Non-financial (Praise).

Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs Theory (PEASS)

1. Basic Physiological Needs: Essential for survival, such as food, water, shelter, and sleep. In an organization, these relate to salary and basic monetary incentives.
2. Safety or Security Needs: Focused on future stability, including job security, insurance, and safe working conditions. Includes:
   - Physical Security: Protection from harm.
   - Financial Security: Assurance of income and benefits.
3. Social or Affiliation Needs: Desire for love, friendship, and acceptance. Includes workplace relationships and teamwork.
4. Esteem Needs: Recognition and respect from others, autonomy, and status. Higher-level employees are often motivated by these.
5. Self-Actualisation Needs: Realizing one's potential, growth, and self-fulfillment. Includes challenging tasks and opportunities for innovation.

Assumptions of Maslow's Theory

- Behavior is driven by unmet needs.
- Fulfilled needs stop motivating; the next level becomes the focus.
- Needs follow a hierarchy, starting from basic to advanced.
- Higher-level needs arise only after lower-level needs are met.

Financial and Non-Financial Incentives

I. Financial Incentives (Please 4ward BRS)

Financial Incentives are monetary rewards aimed at motivating employees for better performance. They satisfy both basic and higher-level needs, such as financial security, social status, and power. Some of the common financial incentives are as follows:

1. Pay and Allowance: Basic salary, allowances, and performance-linked increments.
2. Productivity-Linked Wage Incentives: Higher pay for efficient workers to boost productivity.
3. Bonus: One-time reward for exceptional performance, often during festivals or after targets are achieved.
4. Profit Sharing: Employees receive a portion of company profits.
5. Stock Options: Employees purchase company shares at below-market prices, fostering ownership.
6. Retirement Benefits: Includes pension, provident fund, gratuity, etc.
7. Perks: Additional benefits like medical care, housing, and education for employees' children.
8. Commission: Generally offered to sales employees as an additional income on every product they sell

- Pay and Allowance
- Productivity-Linked Wage Incentives
- Bonus
- Profit Sharing
- Stock Options
- Retirement Benefits
- Perks

- Status
- Organizational Climate
- Career Advancement Opportunity
- Job Enrichment
- Employees Recognition Program
- Job Security
- Employee Participation

II. Non-Financial Incentives (ACE PRESS)

Non-Financial Incentives are rewards that cannot be measured in monetary terms but fulfill psychological, social, and emotional needs. Some of the common non-financial incentives are:

1. Status: Prestige linked to job roles, such as luxurious office setups or company vehicles.
2. Organizational Climate: Healthy work environment with autonomy, rewards, and open communication.
3. Career Advancement Opportunity: Promotions and growth opportunities to boost satisfaction and commitment.
4. Job Enrichment: Varied, challenging tasks offering recognition and growth.
5. Employee Recognition Programs: Appreciation through awards, certificates, and public acknowledgment.
6. Job Security: Stability of employment, reducing fear of job loss.
7. Employee Participation: Inclusion in decision-making for psychological satisfaction and engagement.
8. Autonomy/Employee empowerment: Giving more freedom to employee to take their own decisions. Thus, developing more confidence

LEADERSHIP

Leadership is the process of influencing people's behavior to achieve organizational goals. It involves maintaining good relationships with followers and motivating them to contribute toward objectives. A person with leadership qualities is called a leader.

FEATURES OF LEADERSHIP

- Influence Process: Leadership is the ability to influence others toward achieving objectives.
- Relational: It exists in interactions between two or more people.
- Behavioral Change: Leadership aims to alter followers' behavior positively.
- Interpersonal Relations: Strong relationships between leaders and followers are essential.
- Goal-Oriented: Focused on achieving organizational objectives.
- Continuous Process: Leadership is ongoing and adaptable.
- Situational: Actions depend on the specific context or environment.
- Authority-Based: Leaders require sufficient power to influence effectively.

IMPORTANCE OF LEADERSHIP

- Inspires Employees: Encourages high performance and goal achievement.
- Psychological Support: Provides confidence, support, and personal connection.
- Facilitates Change: Guides employees to accept and implement organizational changes.

- Manages Conflicts: Resolves disagreements and unites efforts toward common goals.
- Fosters Development: Enhances employees' skills and prepares them for future roles.

TYPES OF LEADERSHIP STYLES

Type	Description	Suitability	Advantages	Disadvantages
Autocratic (Authoritative) 	Leader centralizes decisions, exercises complete control, and enforces compliances.	1. Subordinates lack education or experience. 2. Fear and punishment based discipline exists. 3. Leader prefers centralized decision-making.	1. Quick decision making. 2. High motivation for leader. 3. Requires fewer skilled subordinates. 4. Effective in urgent situations.	1. Causes frustration and low morale. 2. Reduces subordinate initiative. 3. Stifles creativity. 4. Limits subordinate development.
Democratic (Participative) 	Leader consults subordinates, encourages suggestions, and respects their opinions in decision-making.	1. To improve job satisfaction and freedom. 2. When delegating decision-making to subordinates. 3. Subordinates accept organizational goals.	1. Boosts morale and satisfaction. 2. Improves decision-making abilities. 3. Reduces turnover and absenteeism. 4. Enhances decision quality. 5. Strengthens leaders, influence.	1. Time-consuming process. 2. Ineffective with disengaged subordinates. 3. Leader may lose accountability. 4. Seen as a sign of weak leadership.

Laissez-faire (Free-rein) 	Subordinates have autonomy to define objectives and strategies, with minmal leader involvement.	1. Subordinates and well-trained and skilled. 2. Subordinates are self-motivated and responsible.	1. Boosts satisfaction and morale. 2. Encourages maximum development of subordinates. 3. Utilizes employees' talents fully.	1. Lack of guidance from leaders. 2. Overlooks leader's role. 3. Can lead to confusion and disorganized efforts.

QUALITIES OF A GOOD LEADER (MID - SPICKS)

Quality	Description
Physical Features	A healthy and fit appearance helps a leader attract people and creates a positive first impression.
Knowledge	A leader must be knowledgeable and competent in their field, guiding and instructing the team effectively.
Integrity	High moral standards and honesty build trust and credibility, helping the leader to be a role model for others.
Vision	A good leader has a clear vision for the future of the team or organization, with an understanding of goals and how to achieve them.
Initiative	Creativity and the ability to take initiative and find new ideas or approaches are important qualities of a leader.
Communication Skills	Effective communication involves clearly sharing ideas, listening to others, the guiding the team through persuasion.
Motivation Skills	A leader must understand the needs of team members and be able to motivate them to achieve organizational goals.
Self-Confidence	Confidence in oneself helps boost team morale and create trust in the leader's decisions.
Decisiveness	A leader must make decisions confidently and promptly, maintaining stability and taking responsibility for those decisions.
Social Skills	A good leader builds relationships with followers, understanding their problems, offering support, and fostering loyalty and confidence.

COMMUNICATION

Meaning

Communication is the exchange of information, ideas, or feelings to create mutual understanding. It comes from the Latin word communis, meaning "common," and involves all actions a person takes to ensure their message is understood by others.

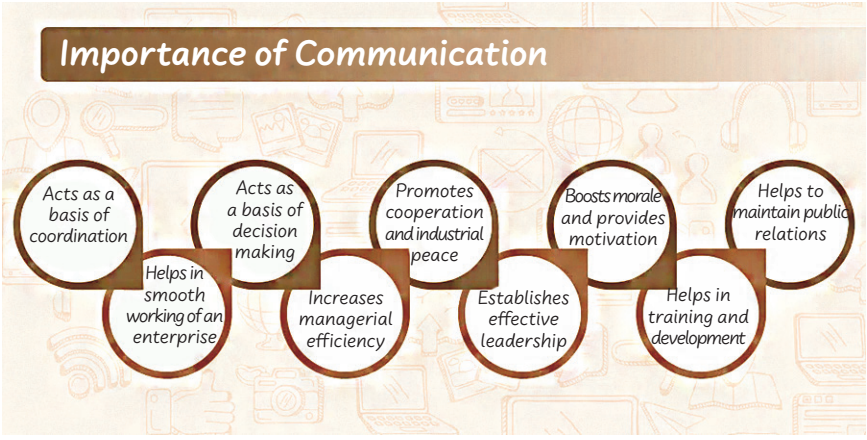

Communication

Features/Nature of Communication

1. Social Process: Involves two or more people exchanging ideas, information, and knowledge.
2. Pervasive: Required in all management functions like planning, organizing, and decision-making.
3. Continuous: Constant exchange of ideas, facts, and information is essential for organizational functioning.
4. Creates Understanding: Aims to establish mutual understanding between sender and receiver.
5. Two-Way Process: Involves sending, receiving, understanding, and providing feedback.

Importance of Communication (BIE PAAS)

1. Acts as a Basis for Coordination: Helps coordinate activities across departments and divisions.
2. Smooth Working of Enterprise: Essential for the functioning and adaptability of an organization.
3. Acts as Basis for Decision Making: Provides the information needed for sound planning and decision-making.
4. Increases Managerial Efficiency: Essential for the performance of managerial functions.
5. Promotes Cooperation and Peace: Helps resolve misunderstandings and maintains trust.
6. Establishes Leadership: Supports guidance, motivation, and feedback from leaders to followers.
7. Boosts Morale and Motivation: Keeps employees informed, fostering a sense of belonging.

Elements of Communication Process

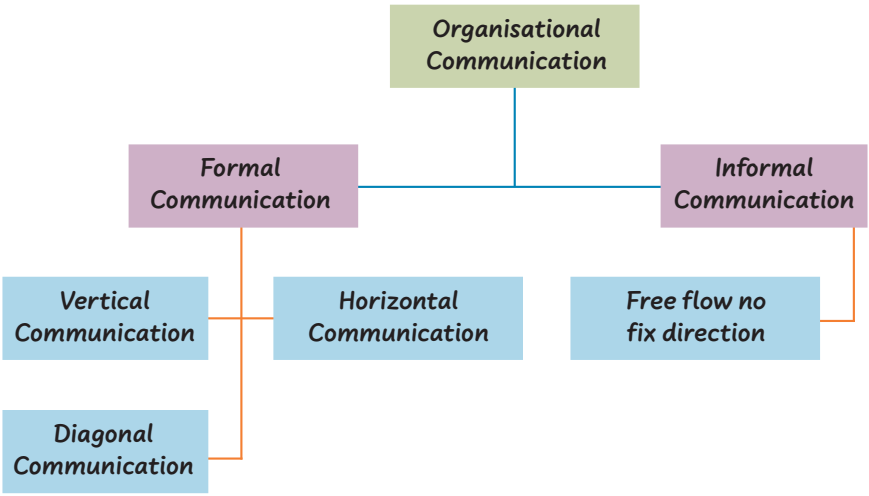

Elements of Communication Process

Step		Description
1.	Sender	The person who conveys the message or ideas to the receiver. (e.g., teacher)
2.	Message	The subject matter of communication, including ideas, feelings, or instructions.
3.	Encoding	Converting the message into symbols (Words, pictures, gestures) to be understood by the receiver.
4.	Media	The medium/channel through which the message is transmitted (e.g., face-to-face, email).
5.	Decoding	Translating the encoded message into a language the receiver can understand.

6.	Receiver	The person who receives and interprets the message. (e.g., students)
7.	Feedback	The receiver's response to the sender, confirming understanding.
8.	Noise	Any external interference or disruption that distorts the message (e.g., distractions).

FORMS OF ORGANIZATIONAL COMMUNICATION

1. Formal Communication

This is official communication that follows the hierarchy within an organization. It's used to convey instructions, orders, and policies, and is usually documented.

- Types:
  - Vertical Communication:
    - Downward (Superior to subordinate)
    - Upward (Subordinate to superior)
  - Horizontal Communication: Between employees at the same level.
  - Diagonal Communication: Between different departments and levels.

2. Informal Communication

Unofficial communication that occurs through social interactions, often known as the "grapevine." It spreads quickly but can lead to rumors and misinformation.

- Key Features:
  - Fast information spread
  - Can cause distortion or leakage of sensitive information
  - Builds relationships and emotional satisfaction

Managers can use informal communication to address gaps or urgent matters and improve relationships.

Here is the chart for the networks of grapevine communication:

Network Type	Description
Single Chain 	This network exists between a supervisor and his subordinates.
Wheel 	In wheel network, all subordinates under one superior communicate through him only as he acts as a hub of the wheel
Circular 	In circular network, the communication moves in a circle. Each person can communicate with his adjoining two persons.
Free Flow 	In this network, each person can communicate with others freely
Inverted V 	In this network, a subordinate is allowed to communicate with his immediate superior as well as his superiors superior.

Barriers to Communication

1. Semantic Barriers (BSF – TUB)

These barriers arise when words or symbols have different meanings to different people.

- Badly Expressed Message: Vague or imprecise language.
- Symbols with Different Meanings: Words can carry different meanings based on context.
- Faulty Translations: Misunderstanding due to language barriers.
- Unclarified Assumptions: Undefined expectations lead to confusion.
- Technical Jargon: Complex terminology can hinder understanding.
- Body Language Mismatch: Non-verbal cues conflicting with spoken words.

2. Psychological Barriers (PLLD)

Emotions and mental states of both the sender and receiver affect communication.

- Premature Evaluation: Judging before hearing the full message.
- Lack of Attention: Distractions lead to miscommunication.
- Loss by Transmission/Retention: Information distortion through multiple levels.
- Distrust: Lack of trust distorts the message.

3. Organisational Barriers (RS – PCC)

The structure and policies of the organization can impede communication.

- Organisational Policy: Restrictive policies hinder free communication.
- Rules and Regulations: Rigid channels create delays.
- Status: Hierarchical gaps prevent open communication.

- Complexity in Organisational Structure: Multiple levels slow down communication.
- Lack of Communication Facilities: Absence of tools like meetings or suggestion boxes hampers communication.

4. Personal Barriers (FULL)

Individual traits of both senders and receivers impact communication effectiveness.

- Fear of Challenge to Authority: Superiors may avoid communication that could challenge their status.
- Lack of Confidence: Disbelief in others' competence stifles communication.
- Unwillingness to Communicate: Avoidance of communication due to fear of consequences.
- Lack of Incentives: Without motivation, individuals may not engage in effective communication.

Measures to Improve Communication Effectiveness

Measure	Description
Clarify Ideas Before Communication	Ensure the message is clear and precise in the sender's mind before conveying.
Communicate According to Receiver's Needs	Tailor the message to the receiver's understanding, level of education, etc.
Consult Others Before Communicating	Plan communication with input from others to make it more effective.
Be Aware of Language, Tone, and Content	Use simple, clear, and appropriate language that resonates with the receiver.
Convey Useful Information	Share only information that is helpful and valuable to the receiver.
Ensure Proper Feedback	Get feedback to confirm the receiver understands the message.
Communicate for Present and Future Needs	Communication should meet both current and future organizational goals.
Follow-up Communications	Follow up to resolve misunderstandings or clarify doubts.
Be a Good Listener	Listen attentively and patiently to improve the communication process.